

The Women's Center of Beaver County is committed to creating a culture and community that sees all people for who they are. We strive to acknowledge the injustices experienced by victims of sexual assault and domestic violence, understanding that communities of color and other marginalized groups continue to have unequal access and support with receiving services, justice, opportunity, and healing.

At the Center, we strive to acknowledge these injustices and are committed to creating a community where all people have dignity, respect and access. We commit ourselves to embracing diversity and being advocates for change. At the Center, all people have value and we are committed to creating a space where all people have the opportunity to thrive.
